Data Scientist

written by admin | 09/02/2021

If you love problem-solving in mathematics, you can be a data scientist! It is an emerging and highly demanded career with lucrative career path options.

The job scope involves helping organisations solve major questions using computer science, modelling, statistics, analytics, and mathematics.

They analyse large amounts of data using software and increase data accuracy.

Skills needed to be a data scientist are:

- Statistical analysis
- Data visualisation
- Programming languages such as R and Python

Data scientists can work in any field, including health, food, logistics, and aviation.