5 Internet safety rules to keep your family safe online

Protect yourself
when you're online!

Educate kids about online safety.

Teach kids about suspicious activity online and encourage them to ask for help if something seems suspicious.

Identify the threat in your household.

Make sure you have a hard-to-crack password and consider security software that identifies "intruders" on the network.

Keep social networks secure.

Keep a close eye on your friends' social network accounts. If someone messages you who hasn't done so in a while, then be suspicious. Your friend's account may have been hacked.

Think before you post.

Avoid posting sensitive personal information online. Don't share too much information either.

Watch out for scams.

There are other ways to trick you into entering information. Even some so-called legitimate businesses can trick you into signing up for recurring annual payments and the like.
