

Whale Tales: The Beluga Whale's Epic Journey

written by Saarani Vengadesen | 10/05/2021

The Beluga whale is an animal that travels over 3,730 miles (6,000 km) to stay in touch with all its extended family members. During the gathering, they pass information to the next generation about safe places to go and warn against risky areas. They are also known as the "Underwater Chatterbox" because they engage in vocal communications with mimicry skills.
